FOREWORD

WE PROUDLY PRESENT for your approval the 1954 SUNFLOWER. The staff believes that the seasonal division employed in the make-up of the book will give you a better over-all view of your year in college. Events are pictured in the order of their occurrence and short statements bring to mind their significance.

This year brought the razing of Kellogg Library, the achievements of a new, active administration, the opening of Roosevelt High School, and three seasons filled with activities.

THE ADMINISTRATION was given a King-size New Look with the appointment of Dr. John E. King to the Presidency of Emporia State. After one school year, the consensus of students and faculty is: On him, the job looks good.

One of Dr. King's first acts was to appoint a planning committee. Most of E-State's teaching facilities will accommodate 2,000 students. Area and census studies in-dicade this figure will be the approximate enrollment of E-State some nine or ten years hence. Work of the committee: To blueprint an expanded E-State campus so that growth toward the ultimate goal will be orderly and controlled, assuring the students of maximum service.

With a sympathetic Board of Regents and a legislature aware of Kansas' educational needs, E-State's future is assured.

IN MEMORIAM

At the close of the year, the students and faculty of Emporia State mourned the passing of Dr. Dale Zeller, professor of education. Dr. Zeller had served on the faculty for 32 years, having first come to the campus in 1922. She was nationally known as an authority in elementary education. Her passing means the loss of a brilliant teacher, and a true friend to those who knew her.

After a "round the world" spree Alpha Sigma Alpha pledged twelve hopefuls, and made big plans for a display of Darwin's Theory for Homecoming. Jo Kirk and Ruth Staton were honored as attendants in the vie for Homecoming Queen.

The Christmas season found the Alpha Sias at the Country Club for their annual Snowball formal.

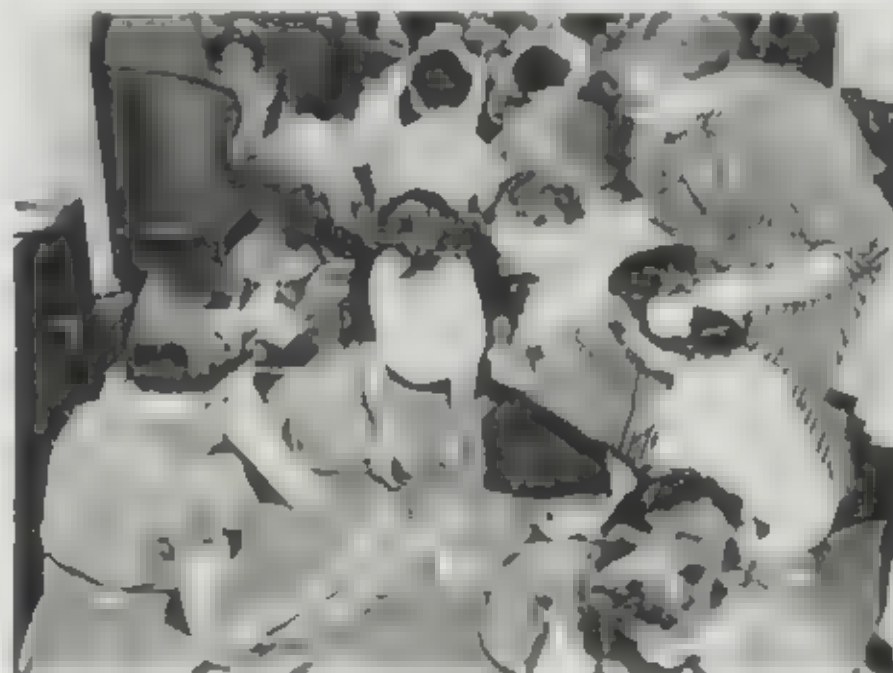

After strenuous practices, they were rewarded with second place in the Singing Bee singing 'With a Song in My Heart.'

Completing an eventful year, a colonial Spring formal was held at the Broadview in April with entertainment by the pledge.

In December, the Home Economics Club had ten needy children as guests at a Christmas party. The State College Club Convention was held at Topeka in March.

AFTER the whirl of rush week, Alpha Sigma Tau members settled down to a semester of studies, and plans for Homecoming decorations. The Alpha Taus were the new owners of the first place plaque with the theme of Hornets on the Loose to Sting the Gories for their decorations. Alice Mae Clark was nominated for Homecoming queen.

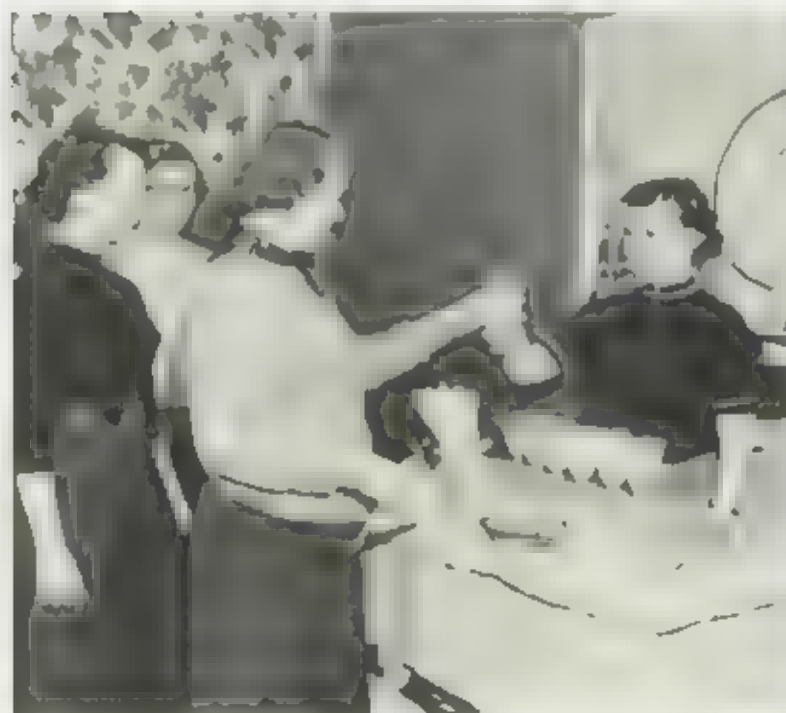

The Alpha Taus took a "Sleigh Ride" at their winter formal, and were in "Tau Heaven" at their spring formal.

Members in campus activities were Marilyn Olson, Betty Lewick, Bonnie Knapp, in Pi Omega Pi; and Wanda Barb in Xi Phi and Student Council.

The Delta Sigs are becoming more sports minded as they went out for intramurals for the first time in several years.

Well represented in major stage productions, the Delta Sigs had Shirley Temple and Jan Lehman in "Little Foxes"; and Phyllis Gould and Jan Lehman in "The Innocents."

Shirley Temple was elected vice-president of the freshman class; and Sharon Winters was secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class.

A scholarship cup was given at the Honors Convocation to the sorority with the highest grade average. This tradition was revived to stimulate interest in scholarship.

In an effort to promote good relationships between the sororities on campus, and to discuss problems common to all, the Panhellenic Council sponsored an all-day workshop in November, spiced with meetings of various officers, general session, and a luncheon. THE Inter-Fraternity Council was composed of two members from each fraternity with Dr. V. T. Trusler, Dean of Men, as sponsor.

The big issue of the year was in dealing with the new nine-week pledging rule that was approved last Fall. The rule stated that at the close of each nine-week period there would be two days of open pledging, with no rush parties. This spring, however, the rule was revoked and the fraternities will revert to one rush week a semester as previously done. The nine-week method was used for only two semesters.

The annual Inter-Fraternity Spring Formal was held in the Student Union Ballroom with the music furnished by the Counts for members of the five social fraternities and their dates. This formal was made possible by the wonderful cooperation of all the fraternities.

The Chief aim of the Council was to promote friendly relations among the Greeks as well as between the Greeks and independent.

They took first place in bowling in the intramural program and participated in all the other intramural activities. The upper women dormitory and the freshmen dormitory shared their efforts in giving informal, formal, and banquets.

Of course, with this many girls, pacing sides on doors, playing golf in the halls, and telling jokes were common practices. Those all night gab sessions will never be forgotten. They could always watch TV, play cards, or listen to records in the Bamboo Room. When the girls were busy they prepared a snack in the kitchenette, just off the East Room. With the electric room and a variety of the girls had prepared many part of the dormitory; and with eight telephones, they could easily be reached at all times.

OPEN to anyone interested, Winnetaska is the independent group for women. They opened the first semester with a get-acquainted party which included a "Sloppy Joe" picnic in Wilson Park and a circus.

At meetings, Winnetaska had several guest speakers. At Homecoming time, alumni found Corky serving "Gorilla Burgers." Following the Homecoming festivities the Winnies' spare time was spent in preparation for the Y-Sing, and toys were sent to the State Orphans Home in Atchison at Christmas.

Spring found the girls busy on a project of making scrapbooks for children. An informal party in the form of the annual "Puff Pam Prom" was held. Members and their dates were clothed in the traditional "Puff Pam" costumes.

Ruth Ireland, the Winnies' candidate for Miss Emporia State, gave a rendition of a "Tutti-Fruitti." It symbolized a typical co-ed's life during the week. And, of course, the happiness for the Friday which never seems to come.

At the Penny Carnival where the proceeds go to the Community Chest, the students had a chance to get revenge on their teachers at the Winnies' Doll Throw. This certainly went over big with all those students who feel rather strongly about some of their teachers.

Revision of the constitution was finally made public after two years of effort of Councils. It was also debated at this time as to whether our Student Council should join the ranks of the National Student Association, but after a persuasive talk by Paul Reaume, President of the Student Council of the College of Emporia, the polls were opened and the move was voted in.

With Jack Fiedler as chairman of the arrangements, the Student Council again sponsored a Penny Carnival in the spring, with the various social organizations providing the booths and attractions for the evening.

Weekly meetings were held to lend an ear to student wishes and to deal with social, recreational, athletic, budgetary, and governmental problems peculiar to our campus. At the close of the year, members reviewed their shortcomings and accomplishments and were pleased.

NIGHTLY SOJOURNS AT MUSIC HALL GIVES THAT INFORMAL LOOK

Singing Bee anticipation

Spring brought trying practices as social organizations "tried" for top honors at the Fourteenth Annual Singing Bee sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha, honorary men's music fraternity. The possibility of winning a new trophy spurred the women's groups to work out elaborate lighting systems, identical costumes, and last but not least, expert performance of chosen songs. Men also were eager to recapture the trophy housed for a year at the Sig Tau house.

Music Hall was the scene of many informal practices in anticipation of the Bee which is traditionally one of the biggest musical events on campus. Attendance was good, as members found the fine a price too high to pay.

TROPHY TO DIRECTOR WALDRON

"I Talk to the Trees"

At last the long awaited night arrived and after a hustle backstage and a few preliminary numbers by Phi Mu Alpha, the audience hushed, and the curtain went up on the members of Phi Sigma Epsilon, led by Jesse Kadel, number one entrants in the Singing Bee. In addition to their sweetheart song, they sang "I Talk to the Trees."

"With a Song in My Heart"

Second place winners, and also second on the program was Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority singing "With a Song in My Heart" and a revised sweetheart song, led by song leader Pat Swiercinsky. Out to defend their title, they dropped to second rank, however.

"Through the Trees"

Sigma Phi Epsilon, ranking second in the men's division, placed third on the program with "Through the Trees" and "Count Your Blessings," directed by Murray Farr.

"Lover, Come Back to Me"

Pi Kappa Sigma stepped into the limelight with a lovely rendition of "Lover, Come Back to Me," directed by Betty Young.

Members of Alpha Kappa Lambda went sentimental on their rendition of "The Whiffenpoof Song." Bob Haigh directed.

"Fools Rush In"

Last, but not least, in the women's division were the Tri Sigs, who added a professional touch to "Fools Rush In," which added a bright, shiny trophy to their collection. Director Pat Waldron was on hand to receive it.

Between numbers, entertainment was provided by the pledges of Phi Mu Alpha.

After adding fourteen pledges to the roster of Alpha Kappa Lambda, the fall semester was busy with the pledge sneak parties, and the annual pledge formal.

Marilyn McGuff of Alpha Sigma Alpha was crowned 'Pledge Princess' to reign over the pledge formal.

In March, the chapter house was transformed into an early twenties speakeasy for the annual 'Go to Hell with AKL' party.

Overseeing the political scenes of E State was AKL Don Lawerson, President of the Student Council.

Twenty-one men were pledged during the year.

SIXTY were under the direction of Professor S. H. Strickland at many public appearances this year. The Symphonic Chorus sang in the sixth annual Christmas Concert and the Battle Hymn for Freedom in the Blue Pavilion that was very impressive. The girls were all white while the boys were dark-skinned.

The members also were robes at the annual Religious Vesper Service at Christmas time. During second semester they were very busy working on the English which was presented in the program. Again, the girls were all white while the boys were dark-skinned. The English featured a soloist from New York.

The chorus brought me a letter from a girl in the chorus and returned it to the girl from the chorus. Part of the group had to be heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in the afternoon in the Music Hall. The chorus carried across the campus and the time making every one with her we were in the chorus.

BAND

The celebration for the anniversary of the appearance of the K.S. C. band will be held at the football game. On Band Day the members were hosts to students from thirty-three high school bands that participated in the celebration.

During the spring the band members were found quite busy touring North Central Kansas presenting concerts in Marysville, Washington, Bellevue, Mankato, and Minneapolis. A formal concert was given in Emporia in May.

Several new instruments were purchased for the band this year. Two new tubas and a percussion section which included a big drum, two concert drums, and two field drums seemed to fill the bill.

Dorothy Libben and Robert Haigh served as librarians and Dr. Hendricks directed.

MEMBERS of the Emporia State Orchestra worked hard all year preparing for their concerts. Under the direction of Leopold Liegl the orchestra presented a concert in December featuring Edwin Stuntzner as cello soloist. The orchestra played selections from Beethoven, Bach, Boccherini, and Handel.

The annual spring symphonic concert had only movements from symphonies played and sung. Soloists in this concert were John Vander Velde, Piano; Mary Dotson, Violin; Gary Duncan, French Horn; Jacqueline Vigola, Oboe; Stanley Avery, Piano; Mary Ruth Dillman, Clarinet; Jackie Hicks and Kay Schmitt, Cellists; Pat Waldron, Soprano; and Philip Keiler, Piano. Finale of the concert in G-minor by Mendelssohn was a brilliant and spirited movement in old Rondo form. It was virtuosic in character, and possessed a lilting melody and rhythmic flavor which appealed to both performer and audience.

Students and faculty members find the orchestra an outlet for their talents if they are interested in music. Music from modern composers as well as from the symphonic repertoire was usually played. The orchestra is certainly not audience shy as it performed before the public many times.

Future Teachers of America, with an increased membership of 20, actively participated in several group projects.

The organization was fortunate in having the Director of Field Programs for the FSTA, as well as Dr. Merritt Sanders and Alex Daughtry from the campus, as speakers.

One of the highlights of the year was a chartered bus trip to the Boy's Industrial School at Tipton that enabled them to study the educational program of a special school.

Representative attended a meeting held in August with a view to organizing FTA on a statewide basis.

A May banquet honored those who were entering the teaching profession in the Fall.

Elementary Club is an organization open to all interested elementary educators. During the year, meetings were held once a month at which speakers tried to present topics of special interest to the classroom teacher. These speakers were followed by discussion by the members. Mrs. John Nether, Mrs. Ruth Stolt, Reverend Stephen Williams, Mr. Orville H. H. Dr. Don Eaves, Mrs. Ruth Harrison, and Mrs.

Agnes Engstrand were speakers for this group.

Educational problems were discussed by representatives of the administration, community, and the church as to what is expected of the teacher. Good professional magazines for elementary teachers were criticized and an elementary supervisor spoke on how the state department is helping the teacher as well as the professional standards of certification.

Throughout the year, several social meetings were held in the St. Ignace church with refreshments served afterward. A spring banquet celebrated the activities of the club.

Sponsors of the group this year were Mrs. Ina Borman and Mrs. Helen D. Quinn.

EMPORIA State Players is an organization for those interested in stage work, whether acting, crew work, or direction; and for those interested in radio work.

This group participated in the school productions; and while the members work hard, they gain much experience as well as have a good time working together.

In National Collegiate Players, honorary fraternity, were two members this year; they were Beverly Groh and Mary Wyllie Matheny.

All the members worked hard backstage, or were in Curli-Q, to make it a success. Several of them participated in the Farm and Home show demonstrating stage make-up.

The annual picnic and speech recognition dinner ended the year. The dinner was for members of Radio Club, Alpha Epsilon Rho, National Collegiate Players, and Emporia State Players. Here, recognition was given to those outstanding individuals in speech.

KAPPA Delta Pi recognizes outstanding contributions to the field of education and strives to maintain a high degree of professional fellowship within the group.

Members are selected from the upper twenty-five per cent of the junior and senior classes. Factors taken into consideration in selecting new members are professional promise, high scholastic standing, personality, and ability to express thoughts and ideas.

The initiation banquet in the spring was one of the highlights of the year for Kappa Delta Pi. George Harrison of the Education Department was the principal speaker.

Also in the spring, Iota Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi sent Belva Ames as its official representative to the national convention held at Purdue University.

This organization stimulates high professional, intellectual, and personal standards. Dr. Harry Waters was counselor during the year.

IN A MERGER with the Business Club last summer, FBLA became the departmental club of the business department. Approximately sixty students were on the roster of the organization.

A field trip to Kansas City in the winter to visit the Board of Trade and the Federal Reserve Bank was one of the highlights of the year. Another major event was the annual Pi Omega Pi and FBLA Banquet in the spring.

Melba Ernst, State Corresponding Secretary for the year, was elected to the office of State Vice-President for the year 1954-55 at the second annual state convention held on the KU Campus. Thirteen FBLA members and their sponsor, Mr. Maxwell, also state sponsor, attended this convention.

Other projects of the year included serving as a courtesy group for the Business Education Club of Kansas Convention, assisting Pi Omega Pi in a departmental picnic for new business students, and presenting a skit outlining the aims and objectives of the club to the Dodge City High School students.

Later in the year, they visited Boeing, Cudahy Meat Packing Plant, and the Coleman Corporation of Wichita.

Alums were guests at a coffee hour and a get-acquainted picnic was held for business students.

Culminating the year's activities was the publication of Mu Pi Omegan, annual publication of the organization, and the yearly Pi Omega Pi banquet.

VAPOR locks, lost evidence, stale jokes and a limited budget plagued the year for the debaters and Coach Master. However, the year bore its share of wins and trophies.

Fraternity activities were a far-cry from the speaking podium; they parted favors and planned dinner for visiting high school debaters; acted as time keeper on grand boys for the E-State sponsored tournament; hosted high school guests in the spring; and cooperated with their colleagues Alpha Epsilon Rho and E State Players to make plans for the Speech Recognition Dinner.

Historian	Lawrence Eudaley

K-CLUB, as a tradition, began the year by plopping bright yellow beanies on the heads of all Freshmen, who felt embarrassed, but felt the paddle if refusing to wear them. Traditionally, also, a bull pen was set up in the rotunda for those not cooperating.

At Homecoming, the K-Club welcomed their alums and the usual bull fest with the returning lettermen followed.

K-Club served as host to guest teams and coaches during the year, and acted as doormen, ushers, and program sellers for the athletic contests.

The athletic group instigated a new-type all school party. It was named the "K-Club Street Dance," and was the first of its kind on the campus.

Initiates this year were Bill Anderson, Marvin Buss, Jim Fulton, John Hufford, Carol Leitner, Jack Ring, and Jim Roberts.
